Makes Migration Safer

About ICMPD / IKAM

The International Centre for Migration Policy Development is an international organisation that strives to make migration better and safer. We do so by connecting people and by offering innovative solutions that transform today's migration challenges into tomorrow's opportunities. We work in different regions across the world from Central Asia to West Africa. We try to ensure that our work is aligned with the reality of migration, by working in as many countries as possible along specific migration routes. The IKAM project reflects this logic. It provides objective information to forthcoming migrants in countries of origin that are interested or planning to migrate to Europe - including about the risks they may face - as well as to people that are currently on the move across the Balkans, helping them to make the right choices that will keep them and their families safe.
